Do you think that you can get better English skills* if you listen to English songs for a long time? If ( 2 ), what skills can you improve*?

In my ( 3 ), listening to English songs does not help you to speak English fluently*. I know that some people listen to English songs for 20-30 years but still don't gain* any good English skills. It is, in fact, helpful in gaining some vocabularies, but most of them are ( 4 ) ones because you don't use them in your everyday life; you will hear only love, passion, and hate in such songs.

People like using English songs to practice English because it's easy and enjoyable. They think that sitting in the car and listening to English songs day ( 5 ) day can improve their English skills. It is actually not.

You will definitely* not improve your listening skill only by listening to English songs, because normal people don't speak with ( 6 ). People don't talk like Eminem* songs. You can't get better English pronunciation* or accent just from listening to English songs.

I would like to encourage* you to watch English movie, and listen to radio news or other normal talks. Of course, you can listen to music for ( 7 ) but not for the aim* of improving your English skills.

Having good English skills is not that easy. Remember you should work hard to improve your English ability.

Ⅵ 次の英文を読み、設問に答えなさい。

アナがクリストフを探しにアレンデール城から抜け出し、お互いを探す場面です。

The winds were picking up as the storm raged* in Arendelle. The snow continued to fall, and the air was <sup>(1)</sup>frigid. The ice blocks in the fjord* were beginning to shift, and this <sup>(2)</sup>made walking on the frozen surface* dangerous.

The snow hit Anna's face hard and blinded her, but she and Olaf continued to walk. She held her hand up to shield her eyes when she reached the shore*. She was surprised to see that the fjord waters were frozen into solid* blocks and the ships turned on their sides.

"Kristoff!" <sup>(3)</sup>she called out weakly. She couldn't see him, but she knew he was coming over the fjord — and she knew he was her last chance for survival. The ice was still spreading through her heart and making her <sup>(4)</sup>weaker and weaker. She was determined*, but was losing strength with each step.

The snow was swirling* wildly now and covering everything. "Whoa!" Olaf cried as the wind lifted him up and took him ( A ) Anna.

Not far away, but Kristoff was completely engulfed* in the snowstorm. He was riding on Sven's back and racing desperately toward Anna. As he passed over the fjord, a ship which was wedged* in the thick ice ( B ) front of him began to shift and wobble*. "Come on! Come on!" Kristoff urged* Sven.

With a mighty effort, Sven leaped out ( C ) the water and landed safely on a floating piece of ice. He nodded* and signaled that he was all right.

"Good boy," Kristoff called. He turned back to find Anna.

---

Hans was also out on the frozen fjord and struggled through the storm. He was pursuing*

Elsa, however — and <sup>(7)</sup>he nearly had her. “Elsa!” he yelled loudly through the howling winds.
“You can’t run from this!”

②“(me/stop/don’t/to/try),” Elsa called back to him. “Just take care of my sister.”

“Your sister?” Hans laughed. “Anna returned from the mountain weak and cold. She said

Elsa gasped*. “No!” She was overwhelmed* by what her powers had done. Her worst fears came true.

“I tried to save her,” Hans <sup>(9)</sup>lie. “But it was too late. Her skin was ice. Her hair turned white. Your sister is dead because ( D ) you.”

Elsa dropped to her knees and put her head in her hands.

The storm stopped abruptly* in response to Elsa’s overwhelming despair. The winds and the driving snow ceased, and snowflakes suspended* in the air.

As she was barely able to speak, she uttered his name and fell to her knees. “Kristoff.”

“Anna! Anna!” Kristoff called desperately as he ran toward her.
